Comments Details Commenter Type: Objector Stance: Customer objects to the Planning Application Reasons for comment: Comments: <redacted_date> Please find the following statements in connection our objection to planning outlined in REF: 94.62735.OUT 74 Market Lane, Bessacarr, Doncaster, ZZ63 7KS xx xxx Our objections are centred around planning outlined in REF: 94.62735.OUT, Objection A The current proposal suggests a building in excess of that normally considered to be a bungalow due to the scale as represented on the proposal. It is also difficult to estimate the full height of the roof line as there are no dimensions to inform the reader, As a result, the proposed plans suggest a building which is not essentially in line with "Back land / Infill " as the full impact of the scale property would be on full show from the roadside & without doubt be out of character within the structural character of Middlefield Road. Given that Middlefield Road is firmly within the Doncaster City designated conservation area, we are very concerned about the impact of loss of trees and shrubs & consequently wildlife habitat needed to be removed in order to erect such a large property. Middlefield Road is a unique conurbation within Doncaster with its flexible & desirable housing design, leafy tree lined road, and an aging population who have lived on Middlefield for many, many years. However more recently, the number of young families moving into a perceived "safe street" for young children to grow up on has grown steadily. There are now more than ever, young children playing safely on the street due to the limited through traffic. Given that Middlefield Road is very narrow road & at time impassable for traffic due to congested parking, we believe that the additional heavy traffic required to complete the proposed construction over many months will be detrimental to the health and welfare of both young and old residents. Together with this, the increased traffic from new residents and visitors, will we believe, have a negative impact on our & residents' safety & environment. Objection B) Our further objections to the new proposal are additionally supported by Doncaster Planning Response and their objections raised in respect of: Planning Proposal <redacted_reference> Detail: Raising of eaves and roof lift and formation of gables to create rooms in roof space Address: 120 74 Market Lane, Bessacarr, Doncaster, ZZ63 7KS Bessacarr Doncaster DN4 7BP Date of Consultation Period: Circa <redacted_date> xx xxxxxxxxxxxxxxx It is important to remind ourselves of Doncaster Planning Response and their objections raised, in order to focus on the proposed development: REF: 94.62735.OUT 74 Market Lane, Bessacarr, Doncaster, ZZ63 7KS The following are extracts from the Planning Response Consultee: Malcolm Thomas (Design and Conservation) Extract 1 "My concern with this proposal is that the increased massing of the heightened building would compete with the frontage building such that it would no longer appears subsidiary to it. This is exacerbated by the changing ridge heights which drops from the frontage building to the link and then jumps up to the new extension. The altered roof form to a gable also impacts on this by reinforcing its separate character. As well as increasing its massing it is noticeably different to the hipped roof forms in the vicinity. Further attention is drawn to the new roof by the 5 front facing rooflights. The raised eaves height also draws attention as it contrasts with the rest of the building where the eaves sits on the window heads and poses another challenge in matching the brick of the main building. The existing Juliet balcony sits easily under the eaves but an additional balcony above it with its offset alignment will draw attention to the height of the gable" Extract 2 "The corner location makes the proposal prominent, and I would say that from a conservation viewpoint the proposed alterations would be harmful to the character and appearance of the conservation area at this corner. This would be 'less than substantial harm' in the language of the national planning policy framework (NPPF) which would not appear to be outweighed by public benefits and so I would recommend refusal of the proposal" As a result of the above report, the proposal was rejected If we consider key aspects of the above report extracts, and in particular the references to the importance of the conservation area within the immediate area of the proposed development: "proposed alterations would be harmful to the character and appearance of the conservation area" This together with the implicit concerns about increasing the height of the building in line with the general area which would be harmful. Again, this reflects the uniqueness of Middlefield Road as an exemplar within an urban conservation area. As a result, the report observations and concerns must still be relevant four years after the failed Planning Proposal <redacted_reference> especially with a new proposal which will be far in excess in size of that which caused the refusal of the proposed development "Raising of eaves and roof lift and formation of gables to create rooms in roof space" In conclusion, our concerns and objections are a reflection of the negative impact of such a large development on Middlefield Road as that proposed for backfill development of 74 Market Lane, Bessacarr, Doncaster, ZZ63 7KS. We are also very concerned that if outline planning permission is granted at this stage, future amendment applications could well see a development to rival most "Mansion" scale house developments as can be seen on the front and back gardens of those now constructed on 74 Market Lane, Bessacarr, Doncaster, ZZ63 7KS. xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx Kind regards
